

3762 BC - 3758 BC JEWISH Chronologists
The era at present in vogue among the Jews counted from the creation of the world (anno mundi; abbreviated to AM), came into popular use about the 9th century (850±50) A.D. Traceable in dates recorded much earlier, this era has 5 styles conventionally indicated by Hebrew letters, used as numerals and combined into mnemonics, which state the times of occurrence of the epochal means conjunction of moladim or the orders of intercalation in the 19 yr cycle or
